Year End 2024 Commentary – Attractive Coupons & Defensive Assets

Against an uncertain economic outlook, our defensive portfolio construction (both in terms of asset quality and capital structure) generated a 10.01% return, with a current gross annual coupon of 6.4% and a weighted average credit rating of Single A (“A”)<sup>1</sup>. The portfolio, currently comprised of 95% floating rate assets, is well-positioned should interest rates rise or fall.

During the course of 2024, we increased the weighted average credit rating of the portfolio from BBB to A. Our portfolio loan-to-value ratio (our loans plus any senior debt divided by the estimated value of the underlying properties) is estimated at 40%. Further, we have constructed a durable and diverse portfolio that is thriving in the post-pandemic world, with occupancy levels of ~94% and long-term leases. Our roster of borrower/sponsors is comprised of many of the most successful investors in commercial real estate, including Blackstone, Brookfield, Centerbridge and Apollo. We continue to be invested only in securities backed by industrial assets (such as warehouses and distribution centers), apartment buildings (referred to as multi-family), and one AAA-rated luxury retail shopping center. We have no exposure to more volatile office or hotel assets and, as a result, we expect headwinds in the overall property market, concentrated in those sectors, to have little to no impact on our portfolio.

On the macro front, we see positive technical factors for CMBS in the year ahead with favorable supply/demand characteristics. Substantially all (95%) of our assets are floating-rate and the index now used for all of our loans (one-month SOFR) is currently 4.3%. All of our loans are performing and generating robust cash flows.

In terms of results, during 2024, the Fund returned 10.01%, outperforming the Bloomberg U.S. Investment-Grade CMBS Index whose return was 4.96%, and is currently valued at 99.8% of par (face) value.

In summary, we feel that the Fund had a great 2024 and is very well positioned for the year ahead.

Portfolio Composition and Characteristics

The greatest strengths of our portfolio are asset and sponsor quality. The Fund is comprised of three asset types in 23 investments: industrial, multi-family and one luxury shopping center. At year-end, our portfolio was secured by over 2,500 properties comprising over 600 million square feet across the United States. We feel that our portfolio has never been positioned more defensively and should deliver steady, floating rate returns at an attractive spread to SOFR for years to come.

These asset classes are discussed below with a detailed asset summary on the following page.

Industrial Assets (80% of the portfolio in 17 investments). Industrial assets typically represent the backbone of distribution for retail and commercial goods in the US. The Fund's industrial assets are comprised of large and diversified portfolios of "last mile" warehouse and distribution properties used by such companies as Amazon and Wal-Mart. For example, at issuance, our Blackstone XL2 warehouse portfolio consisted of 121 properties totaling 17 million square feet in 10 states. Within industrial, we also include cold storage, self-storage and data storage assets.

Multi-Family Apartments (17% of the portfolio in five investments). Our multi-family apartment assets are comprised of portfolios of typically ten or more complexes, typically with 100 or more units per complex, including both high-rise and garden style apartments.

High-End Retail Shopping Mall (3% of the portfolio in one investment). As mentioned above, this quarter we acquired AAA bonds secured by the Fashion Show Mall located on the Las Vegas Strip. The 1.7 million square foot mall is 99% occupied with annual sales of nearly $750 million, one of the top malls in the U.S. in terms of size and sales per square foot.

The properties securing the Fund's CMBS investments are owned by many of the country's leading institutional real estate investors such as Apollo, Ares, Blackstone, Brookfield, Centerbridge and Industrial Logistics Properties Trust; our investments benefit not only from their experience but also from their deep pockets and significant equity investments in each transaction.

Conclusion and Looking Ahead

The world is adapting to living with “higher for longer” interest rates that may abate somewhat in 2025 based on current revised estimates. Regardless, we have built a defensive portfolio constructed with floating-rate and highly collateralized assets that are thriving in this environment. We believe that this kind of portfolio should experience lower volatility and generate, as the Fund has done historically, steady and predictable monthly dividends. We are excited for the year ahead and the Fund’s prospects. As a reminder, management of the Fund continues to be a major investor in the strategy.

Investing involves risk including possible loss of principal. Bonds and bond funds are subject to credit risk, default risk and interest rate risk and may decline in value as interest rates rise. High yield bonds involve greater risks of default or downgrade and are more volatile than investment grade securities, due to the speculative nature of their investments. CMBS are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. government and are subject to risk of default on the underlying mortgages. Securities backed by commercial real estate assets are subject to risks similar to those of direct ownership of commercial real estate loans including, but not limited to, declines in the value of real estate, declines in rental or occupancy rates and risks related to general and local economic conditions. There can be no assurance that the Fund will achieve its stated objectives. The Fund is not diversified. The value of the collateral securing CMBS can decline, be insufficient to meet the obligations of the borrower, or be difficult to liquidate. As a result, CMBS may not be fully collateralized and may decline significantly in value.
